Those who love platform games may think this is a simple game, but hardest platformers ever made. The hard part of the game is the impossibility of making 100 bounces. No one can make 100 bounce in this game. We are prepared bad surprises for you. We are give you bonuses, but for what? You never know what we really want to do. Simplicity is not really what it looks like. It was made for those "who really wanted to experience winning." This game never look like "easy peasy lemon squeezy".

Play a little, or a lot -- there's wanna serious skill, so you can always get better and better. Neoncers is a game that has enough bite-sized gameplay to last you a lifetime.

WTF is this game even? Not worth anyones time or money...

THE worst game I EVER played!

You can't do anything besides moving side to side and jump.

You can't even jump high enough to reach the next platform.

The controls are appalling, with major input lag.

It also bugged out several times and I was killed before the level even started.

Clearly a cash-grab game that should have never been allowed onto the Steam platform.
